

122 Computer sciences

IT specialists are engaged in the design of modern information systems, mobile and network applications.

‘Computer Sciences’ is a specialty for the training of bachelors and masters covering a great number of subjects in the field of information technology.

Experts acquire a deep knowledge in the field of information and communication technologies, programming, systems research, use of basic artificial intelligence tools, methods of designing information control systems, as well as elements of economic training and gain practical experience in developing, implementing and maintaining information systems and technologies in various field of economy and technology.

Career development:

1. Associate / Trainee IT Support Engineer;
2. IT Support Engineer;
3. Senior IT Support Engineer;
4. Associate IT Support Lead;
5. IT Support Lead;
6. Senior IT Support Lead;
7. Associate IT Manager;
8. IT Manager;
9. Senior IT Manager;
10. VP MIS;
11. Corporate Management.